

Summer Travel

Heading off for a summer break? Check out our guide to staying safe and healthy abroad

Before you go

Check our country pages for current health risks at your destination, including any vaccine and malaria advice, and see Foreign, Commonwealth & Development Office country pages for the latest travel advice.

Visit a travel clinic at least four to six weeks before you go. This gives you time to check your routine UK vaccines are up to date and get any recommended travel vaccines and malaria tablets.

It remains important to check COVID entry requirements and consider the risk of COVID during your journey and at your destination; see our general advice for travellers.

Going on a last minute holiday? It's not too late; vaccines can be given at short notice and malaria tablets (if needed) can be started the day you go.

Get comprehensive travel health insurance that covers everything you want to do and any health conditions that you have.

Get a free UK Global Health Insurance Card (GHIC, even if travelling to Europe, and check it hasn't expired. Note that EHC arrangements expired on 31 December 2020; check the GOV.UK website for updates and advice. Remember GHIC only gives you access to basic emergency care and you still need your own travel insurance.

Take a basic first kit including items like pain relief, gauze, antiseptic, tape, plasters and tweezers.

While you are away

- Alcohol - eat before you start drinking and have plenty of water and soft drinks. Remember, drinks may be stronger than at home and hot weather might make you more susceptible to the effects of alcohol. Avoid alcohol sold in unlicensed places like street markets. Never accept drinks from strangers or leave your drink unattended.

Try to moderate your intake: alternating every alcohol with a soft drink is a great way to reduce your alcohol consumption and stay hydrated. Don't do something you regret - too much alcohol can reduce your inhibitions, may put your health at risk and increases your chance of having an accident or doing something risky.

Never drink and drive or swim after drinking.

- Stay safe – take care on and around balconies and water. Never dive into a swimming pool from a balcony. Follow local advice about tides and don't swim on your own or after drinking alcohol. Always wear a helmet if riding a horse, bicycle or motorbike/moped. Avoid driving at night.
- Blood-borne infections – body piercing, tattoos, illegal drug use and unprotected sex all carry the risk of blood borne illnesses like HIV, hepatitis B and hepatitis C. It's best to get tattoos or body piercing done safely at home, but if you decide to have them abroad, always check sterile, single use needles are used and disposed of carefully after each procedure.
- Don't let Diarrhoea mess up your plans - be prepared. Visit a chemist before you go to stock up on over the counter diarrhoea treatments. Remember to drink plenty of fluids and if you have diarrhoea with blood and/or fever, see a doctor straight away.
- Food and water – be careful with what you eat and drink and follow basic hygiene rules.
- Protect yourself against insects and ticks – as well as causing skin irritation, in some countries insect and tick bites can also spread diseases. Reduce your risk by covering up, using insect repellents and stay in air-conditioned accommodation whenever possible.
- Safer sex – be aware of your risk of sexually transmitted infections, carry condoms and practice safer sex.
- Sun protection – use an SPF sunscreen of at least 30 UVA/UVB and reapply frequently, especially after swimming, wear a hat and sunglasses.

When you get home

Get urgent medical attention for any fever or flu like symptoms and remember to tell your doctor you have been abroad. This is especially important if you visited malaria risk countries, as an urgent malaria test must be arranged. This is very important even if you took malaria prevention tablets and have been home for a while.

If you had unprotected sex while abroad or think you might have a sexually transmitted infection, go to a free, confidential sexual health clinic for advice.
