Updated information on country yellow fever certificate requirements

World Health Organization have published updates in International Travel and Health

World Health Organization (WHO) have recently published updated information on country yellow fever certificate requirements in International Travel and Health. We are currently reviewing the changes and will be making updates to our website accordingly. A further news message will be posted once the updates have been completed.

The publications Annex 1 and Country List can be located on the WHO website.
